ANNIVERSARY SPECIAL ISSUE

From the Principal's Desk

Dear Reader,

I feel proud to present this Special edition of Newsletter as the quarterly successfully completes four issues and is stepping into the second year.

The dark clouds of the pandemic have drifted away and the ray of resilience is shimmering. We don't grow when things are easy, we grow when we face challenges. The introduction of NEP has provided both a great challenge and a leverage to our teaching-learning process.

A new benchmark is set for the students and teachers, with a quantum leap in the quality of lessons prescribed for them and the freedom for the students to opt for subjects of their choice. Having successfully completed one semester, we assure you the values of education – integrity, care, resilience, respect and responsibility. The best days of your life are ahead of you.

Good Luck.

Dr. Malathi V
Principal

Who inspired you to study well?

CD: All my family members are educated. Interest in Studies was normal. I am inspired by Dr. BR Ambedkar.

SV: I practically have no role models. My mother had high expectations on me and I just wanted to live up to it.

What's the secret of your success?

CD: Hard work. I would get up at 4 am. every day, on my own accord. I used to start reading from the beginning of the academic year.

SV: No secrets. Focus on yourself, with constant effort, believe in yourself and that will lead to success.

Had you anticipated to secure a rank ?

CD: Yes. I had expected first rank and hoped to get 90%. But I got less percentage and landed up with 2nd rank.

SV: I knew I would be in the list, but I was not very sure I would be in the first ten.

What do you intend to be in your life ?

CD: I want to do PhD in Geography, and be an IPS officer.

SV: I am pursuing my CA. By the time I'm 26 I want to be a part of a big firm, live luxuriously, and be a good daughter.

What role does your teachers and the library play in your success?

CD: Teachers have taught well. Library was very useful. But we can't be spoon fed. Our individual effort and determination is very important.

SV: I hardly made use of library. We had an amazing staff, their contribution is significant. But I relied on self-study. Success depends on how you put your theoretical knowledge into practice.

What tips and suggestions would you like to give your junior classmates to achieve academically?

CD: Bear in mind: Nothing is impossible. Don't run away from difficult lesson. Read that first to get confidence. Don't procrastinate. Each hour each day is precious. Ignore functions, avoid idling with friends. Listen to music. But don't allow it to distract you. Read the entire syllabus thoroughly and you can guess which questions you get. Allot appropriate time to answer 2/5/10 mark questions. And concentrate on your handwriting.

SV: All you need is concentration and memory. Don't be a book-worm. Enjoy your life but know your responsibilities. Put all your efforts. Time is precious. Jump into the field for which you have fascination. Not all students can afford college education. Make the best of it. Read at least 2-3 hours per day, from two months before exams read 5-6 hours per day. Make notes. Every paragraph has important points. Plan your schedule. If plan A fails, try plan B. Don't focus on marks. Try to earn knowledge. Don't expect results just do your sincere learning.
